

I recently read where the FCC is planning the introduction of a new low power FM signal that would take local priority over our reception of our local K-LOVE translator service (89.3). I would like to argue against this change.

K-LOVE, although a national service, provides a wonderful service for the residents of Findlay and Hancock County. The quality programming and music K-LOVE offers can't be found on any local broadcast and the upbeat messages and family-friendly offerings are a true blessing, not only to those of us who support K-LOVE financially but to those who are still seeking for something more in a radio station.

In addition, the fact that the broadcasts are centralized only serves to pull the K-LOVE "community" together as a family.

I hear comments from people often about what K-LOVE means to them and their families and that they can't imagine not being able to tune in (not to mention what they would be left with as an alternative!).

Please reconsider this new proposal and leave us with the quality stations we've grown accustomed to.

Thanks for your consideration.
